Who we are?

The financial ecosystem of tomorrow

Short Version

Unlimint provides fast-growing innovative businesses with a constantly evolving financial interface, made by innovators for innovators, and designed to make the financial world of tomorrow closer to businesses here and now.

Long Version

Founded in 2009, Unlimint provides fast-growing innovative businesses with a constantly evolving financial interface, made by innovators for innovators, and designed to make the financial world of tomorrow closer to businesses here and now. From London to Singapore and from San Francisco to Sao Paulo, we help local clients enter new markets, and global businesses to explore new industries and reach new milestones. Following the highest banking industry standards, we are dissolving the borders that have previously limited international expansion.

When was the company founded?

12+ years ago

The company was founded more than 12 years ago by our visionary CEO and Stanford School of Business alumni, Kirill Evstratov, with an ambition to help entrepreneurs accept and make payments to scale their business, by combining deep tech expertise with local insights. Under Kirill's leadership the company has become one of the leading providers in the industry and is now offering fast-growing innovative businesses a constantly evolving business interface, designed to bring the financial world of tomorrow closer and to blur the line between traditional banking, digital wallets, and cards payments.
